

Case Study: Beijing 2008 Olympic Facilities

Client: Guoao Investment and Development Company Ltd - National Indoor Stadium

The Hong Kong Jockey Club - Equestrian Venues

The Olympic & National Training Facilities Construction Authority of State of General Administration of Sport of PRC and The Sports Facilities Construction and Standards Authority of State General Administration of Sport of PRC - Shooting Range Hall

Project

The Beijing 2008 Olympic facilities included 31 venues in Beijing and 6 venues outside of Beijing. Rider Levett Bucknall was involved in the construction of National Indoor Stadium and Shooting Range in Beijing. We were also appointed for the full quantity surveying services of equestrian venues in Hong Kong.

Our role

Completed in July 2007, the Beijing Shooting Range has seating capacity for 8,600 spectators with 2,170 permanent seats and 6,430 removable seats. Rider Levett Bucknall provided the procurement services for the project.

In March 2005, Rider Levett Bucknall was appointed to prepare bills of quantity surveying services for the development of the National Indoor Stadium. Located in the southern part of the Olympic Green, the 80,900 sqm National Indoor Stadium consists of a main structure and a warm-up gym nearby and other outdoor facilities with seating capacity for 18,000.

Rider Levett Bucknall also provided full quantity services for the equestrian facilities in Hong Kong. Construction of the equestrian facilities began in early 2006 and included two large-scale venues for events such as dressage, show-jumping and cross country.

Client benefits

Due to Rider Levett Bucknall's vast experience in the pre-contract and post-contract stages of the projects in China and our knowledge of Chinese cost data, the clients' interest were well protected during the award of the contracts and the finalisation of the accounts.
